p. m. by W. E. Taylor, a temporary clerk, and when the regular clerk, E. T. Hamel, who had been out of the city for the day, returned in about half an hour to open again, he ran upon the two men, who immediately fied by way of the window. Hamel could not furnish a good description of the men, for it was too dark to see plainly, and their exit was too quick, but in a general way he says they answered the description of the two described, who murdered the bartender. The robbers did not have time to secure anything, and except for the fact that the papers on the deek and cabinet were scattered around over the floor, everything was intact. and when the regular clerk, E. MEMORIAL FUND

As Befitting Climax to World's Fair $2,000,000 May Be Raised for University of Virginia.

ROOSEVELT COMMENDS IDEA.

President Francis Writes to Advisory Council Encouraging Undertaking - Many Great . Americans Interested.

New York, Nov. 20 .- A movement to raise an endowment fund for the historic University of Virginia has been organized under the direction of an advisory council of a hundred or more prominent men representing all parts of the United States. This famous old school was founded by Thomas Jefferson, and the fund, which is hoped to eventually amount to $2,000,000 will be named "The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Fund." The university has never had an endowment adequate to its needs, and since the Civil War it has been much hampered by lack of resources.

The Advisory Council which has taken the endowment in hand is composed of distinguished Americans, among the names in its membership being Chief Jus-tice Fuller, Grover Cleveland, Elihu Root, David R. Francis, Secretary Taft, Admiral Dewey, Robert T. Lincoln, St. Clair Mc-Kelway, Cardinal Gibbons, Richard Olney,

PRESIDENT INTERESTED. President Roosevelt is interested in the Novemb r, 17 days......... 1,597,233 project and has indorsed it in the following letter to Thomas Nelson Page, president of the Alumni Association of the University of Virginia:

University of Virginia:

White House, Washington, June 20, 1904.—My Dear Mr. Fage: I have received your letter about the movement to raise a Thomas Jefferson memorial fund as an endowment for the University of Virginia. I most carnestly wish you success, and I feel that the moment you have chosen is most opportune, owing to the reawakened interest in Jefferson's great work caused by the centenary of the Louisiana Purchase.

caused by the centenary of the Louisiana Purchasa.

Your work should commend fixelf, not only to those who are especially interested in the cause of higher education in the South, but to all who are interested in the cause of higher education the cause of higher education the cause of higher education throughout our country. You need a large sum for such a memorial, and I cannot help feeling that you will get it, if the most eminent ment of the country, irrespective of section or party, can have the matter laid before them and are satisfied, as they should be satisfied, as to the great merit of the movement.

The University of Virginia occupies a unique position among our educational institutions. On this first Board of Visitors to the institution wars Jefferson, Madison and Morroe. The university was one of Jefferson's cheriahed ideasa project which occupied his whole time and attention during the latter years of his life. It has never had an endowment requisite to its barest needs.

Now, in the great Exposition at St. Louia, the country is proclaiming the centennial of the achievement in which Jefferson took the leading part; the achievement which, in the purchase of the then territory of Louisiana, definitely established this country as the greatest nation of the Western Hemisphere.

Surely, this celebration should not be brought to a close without leaving on the nation some of its greatest ideals.

It would be a good thing if the people of this country, North and South, East and West, should come forward and establish a Jefferson fund for the university as a fit culmination for the great celebration of the present year, Jefferson wrote his own epitaph to be inscribed on the granite shaft that marks his grave at Monticello. In this epitaph runs as follows:

"Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, the Statute his fellow-men, and the epitaph runs as follows:

"Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia."

The American people can surely be appealed to with confidence to carry out Jefferson's work in the way which be would himself have regarded as most gratifying, by endowing, as it should be endowed, the noble institution of learning which he founded. I earnestly hope for the success of your movement.

Sinosraly yours,
(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE ADVISORY COUNCIL The following circular has been issued y the Advisory Council:

"It bears the stamp of his genuis and will be a noble menument to his fame."—
James Madison.

In this Centennial Year of "The Louisiana Purchase" no more fitting and gracious tribute could be paid to the vast services rendered the country by Thomas Jefferson than for the American people to unite in raising a memorial fund for the permanent endowment of his honored foundation, the University of Virginia.

To the establishment of this great institution, which introduced into this country, early in the last century, many of the features of the Continental universities of Europe, Mr. Jefferson devoted the latter part of his life. "Our university." he wrote, "is the last of mortal cares and the last service I can render my country." And when he framed his own epitaph, omitting all mention of the great offices he had held, he deemed it worthy to be ranked beside the authorship of the Declaration of Independence, and of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, that he was "The father of the University of Virginia."

PRESIDENT FRANCIS'S LETTER. 'It bears the stamp of his genuls and PRESIDENT FRANCIS'S LETTER. President David R. Francis of the Louis ested in the work of raising the fund, and has written the following letter to the Advisory Council, of which he a member: I am pleased to become a member of the Advisory Council, having for its purpose the creation of an endowment fund for the university. The purpose appeals to me, and I hope and believe that the plan you have outlined is feasible.

A great many letters have been received by the Advisory Council in reference to the work of raising the fund, in which the undertaking is highly commended. Among those who have written are the following:

following:

Cornellus N. Bliss, T. Jefferson Coolidge, Andrew D. White, James C. Carter, Doctor E. E. Hale, St. Clair McKelway, General Fitzhurh Les, Edgar H. Farrar, Clark Howell, John Cadwalader, Melleville E. With the World's Fair fast drawing to a close and with good weather prevailing, the number of persons passing the turnstiles at the Exposition gates last week showed an increase of more than 50,000 as compared with the previous week, and with the added attraction of the President this week, the attendance for the next six days is expected to show a still healthler increase.

The attendance at the Fair last week was 552,019, as against 498,149 the week before, the increased number of visitors being 53,870. Up to the present time, 17,617,-905 persons have beheld the wonders of the Exposition.

The increase in the attendance is a ource of much gratification to Exposition officials, and leads them to believe that the closing days of the Fair will see a wonderful gain in the attendance, as was the case at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago. Besides a rush of visitors who have not yet seen the Fair, it is expected that the attendance figures will be greatly swelled by the presence of St. Louis persons who have yet some features of interest to see. The fact that the President will be visitor to the Exposition this week, the first visit of the chief executive of the nation since the gates of the Fair were opened, will bring many people here. President Roosevelt will be in St. Louis Saturday, but it will be President's week at the Fair, and many special features will be added to make the Exposition even more attractive than it has been.

Chairman Indian Territory Exhibit Commission. REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, Nov. 20.-William A. Jones, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, to-day announced that he will not, under any circumstances, be the head of the Indian Bureau after March 4 next. This statement from the Indian Commissioner is final and positive. It will be received with much regret by the Indians generally throughout the country, as well as by his many friends in official life at the capital and elsewhere.

It may be said emphatically that the Commissioner's resignation is for business reasons only. On March 4 he will have served eight years, which, as he explained to-day, is a pretty good record for a man who entered the Indian office with the intention of remaining certainly not longer than two years. However, he found it inexpedient to leave at the expiration of that time, because of the fact that, should he have done so, many of the policies introduced by him would have gone for naught. The Commissioner believed firmly in these policies, and, rather than see them fall, he decided, from time to time, to remain at the head of the bureau. He is generally beloved by the Indians, who speak of him as the "Little Father." Their affection for the Commissioner is due to the fact that by his actions he has always shown himself to be their true friend.

Commissioner Jones stated to-day that the special reason for his announcement is the illness of his brother, with whom he is engaged in the smelting business in Wisconsin. During the Commissioner's term of office, his brother has had most of the responsibility of the business. The Commissioner is largely interested in smelters in his home State, and feels that he cannot longer absent himself from his business. the intention of remaining certainly not
